Sawmill Starts This Morning

The Wrangell Sawmill started operation for the season this morning and it sounds good to hear the buzz of the saws, it stirs up a commotion and livens things considerably. The box factory will also start as soon as conditions are favorable. Practically the same crew they had last year is working. Manager Wilson looks forward to to a busy and prosperous season, which, we trust, will be realized. The mill means a whole lot to the town and from now on there will be more money in circulation, as the mill pay-roll is no mean consideration.

All Roads Lead To The Rink

New Orchestra Gives Dance

The Wrangell Orchestra gave a dance at the Rink last Friday night. The dance was well attended and the music was second to none and everyone reported a good time. The Orchestra is composed of Carl Schumacker, Violin, George Northrop, Cornet, Gene Geffe, Clarinet, Mrs. Hull, Piano, and George Kloquits, Trombone.

Don't forget the SOCIAL tomorrow night at St. Philips Gymnasium, given by the Guild, Short Program, Admission free, Good time for everybody. Come and bring your friends.

In the regional bank hearing at Seattle a few days ago the pur- of the Seattle bankers received a severe jolt. Their plan was to em brace Washington, Idaho, Mon tana, and Oregon into one district for a reserve institution, but Secre taries McAdoo and Houston were too alert to let the Seattle spirit pull one over on them. It develop ed that Seattle does a greater bus iness with Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Chicago than with New York but that the latter city holds 60 per cent of Seattle's reserve money. Secretary McAdoo said it was an illegal condition and wanted to know the reasons for such an arti ficial situation, but the Seattle bankers could say nothing; they were stumped. M. F. Backus, pres ident of the National Bank of Commerce, of Seattle, and repre senting the Seattle Clearing House Association, was compelled to ad mit that there is but little trade relation in Washington with Idaho and Oregon, and less with Mon tana. A further setback was the fact that the capitalization of the national banks would total $43,000, 000 and therefore be able to supply only $2,500,000 of the necessary $4,000,000 under the 6 per cent terms of the law. Seattle was bank ing on their future possibilities and the enormous business trans ac tion with Alaska and the Orient. In Gov. Lister's testimony he care fully reviewed the tremendous growth of Washington and, espe cially, the Alaska trade. He read a letter from Gov. Strong in which the latter advances Seattle's claim to the bank by the fact that more than 90 per cent of the business of the Territory was done through Seattle. Secretary McAdoo said in the amount of information he received about Alaska, during the hearing, he was almost con vinced that a regional bank should be placed in Alaska. He also told them that he had heard of the Seattle spirit and also, incidentally, explained that one prejudice of his was against those who attempted to influence him by furnishing mis leading information, another was the injection of politics into the question. He further explained that they were acting for the good of all the people of the nation; not for bankers, businessmen, laborers or farmers, but for the betterment of the entire community. At a reception given after the hearing, Gov. Lister said he be lieved that the present administra tion will do all it can to allow the state of Washington to do the bus iness of Alaska, rather than to al low it to slip into the hands of their Canadian neighbors. How ever the echo was clearly audible -- Oregon neighbors. Will Seattle get the bank?

Governor Strong is entitled to credit for the statement that Alaska is really growing. Its a novelty in Alaska, for a Governor to make such a statement. —News.

National Forest Timber for Sale

OAK OLEON, Representative

Fish Brokers

Big Graft

They say the last straw broke the camel's back. In Seattle fish sharks are piling the last straw on the backs of Alaska fishermen. For years they have been robbing our fishermen out of their just dues and have been lining their own pockets and living in luxury, while the Alaska fishermen have been braving the elements and undergoing the severest hardships to enrich these Seattle parasites. When the market is a little shy on halibut the sharks boost up the price to nine or ten cents, which in comparison to what they receive for the fish, is a small price, but when a fair sized cargo lands in Seattle down goes the price to three or four cents, but they do not fail to spread the news that halibut is nine and three quarters and still rising. Seattle has at last awakened to the fact that there may possibly be another market for Alaska halibut established at Portland, hence they have taken steps to check this particular bunch of robbers in their nefarious practice. A resolution charging that there is in Seattle a combination in the fish industry in restraint of trade in direct violation of the Sherman law, the Seattle Commercial Club demands a federal investigation. The resolution that was offered by Earl A. Ewark of the board of directors, recites that the fishermen are paid 4c a pound for fish which sells at wholesale in the East at 10c and at retail at 26c. It is learned on good authority that three firms in Seattle are in alleged combine and dominate the industry. This is certainly a pretty state to exist in this advanced age, they pay us about one fifth of what fish is worth and charge us about double for the goods they sell us. However this is only one of the little sidelights where Seattle is sapping her Alaska prey. Small wonder they are on the anxious seat fearing their neighbors will steal the Alaska business from them.
